New Staff Corner

Steve Bethke

Steve Bethke is new to Manitou Springs Middle School, teaching Careers in Construction. He is delighted to be a part of The Herd and his favorite thing that he has experienced thus far is forming awesome relationships with everyone in the district. He was a plumber and electrician before spending 25 years flying various aircraft in the Navy. He spends his free time hiking, snowboarding and being with his family. Steve looks forward to bringing his construction and engineering experience to middle school students.

Duncan MacIvor

Duncan MacIvor, born and raised in Albuquerque, New Mexico, has relocated to Colorado Springs to pursue a fresh start. He believes that everyone should give back to their community. He's chosen education to fulfill this passion and will be teaching English at the high school. From his work in school settings and churches, to volunteering in Albuquerque jails, he's gained a wealth of experiences that he'll be bringing to Manitou Springs.

P.S. His background is in music theory and composition, and he's a pianist, so he is a bona fide, unashamed classical music nerd.

Barrett Weisheipl

Barrett Weisheipl is excited to join the Ute Pass team as a third-grade teacher! Being a Colorado native and lifelong resident of the mighty Rocky Mountains, she is eager to perfect the practice of fun while teaching inside and outside the classroom. Environmental/Outdoor Learning is a gift that Ute Pass provides its community, and Barrett is full steam ahead in exploring how that learning philosophy can support her learners. Barrett yearns for all things alpine to desert and everything in between!

David Williams

David Williams grew up as an Air Force child, mostly in Nebraska. He graduated from Hastings College with a bachelor's degree in music, with emphases in education and saxophone performance. In 2004, he accepted a job as Doherty High School band director, which he held for 15 years. David received his master's degree in 2010. He'll be teaching Band and Orchestra at the high school. David lives in Colorado Springs with his wife, Leslie, and their two boys, Dillon and Lucas. His hobbies include training for triathlons, getting outdoors and watching the Detroit Lions.
